

WOODWARD & LOTHROP. TEN DAYS IN JUNE.

The past ten days of June has been a memorable epoch in the annals of our business. We believe we have waited upon more customers, seen more strangers (which we hope may prove regular customers) than during the corresponding days in any year since we have been in business.

This is to us not only extremely gratifying, but a convincing proof that our goods are exactly as we advertise them, and that our customers appreciate the low prices inaugurated by us during this great Surplus Stock Sale and our endeavors to always give them the very best value possibly obtainable in this or any city.

To-day we make the following additional concessions and would hint to our customers the necessity of early and frequent visits in order to secure some of the excellent bargains we are offering:

LACE DEPARTMENT.
Last week we advertised quite a number of Surplus Stock reductions, in Black Laces. The reductions being very marked, we have now remaining only the following:

- 1 Surplus lot of Black Chantilly Lace, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 inches wide, elegant patterns. Regular price, $1.50. Now, 75c.
- 2 Surplus lot of Black Chantilly Lace, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 inches wide, choice patterns. Regular price, $1.50. Now, 75c.

LADIES' UNDERWEAR DEPT.
50c. Muslin Skirt, 50c. Our lady manager of this department desires to call attention to our 50c Ladies' Muslin Skirt, which is in this city. A broad statement, no doubt, but an examination of this stock will verify the fact.

WHITE GOODS DEPARTMENT.
48-inch Swiss Lawns—A new importation of these popular goods gives us the opportunity of again impressing upon our customers the intrinsic value of the goods introduced by us two years ago, we find each succeeding invoice is, if possible, of a purer and clearer blue, giving it a more snowy color and a smoother, superior finish. Taking in consideration their width (48 inches), and the fact that they wear and launder as handsomely as our India Linens, they are undoubtedly the very best value in White Dress Materials possible for us to offer the trade.

Emb'd Pongee Robes—
Our stock of these goods is unquestionably the largest, most varied, and offered at lower prices than can be found in this city. A broad statement, no doubt, but an examination of this stock will verify the fact.

Flowers, Tips & Plumes
Our stock of these goods is unquestionably the largest, most varied, and offered at lower prices than can be found in this city. A broad statement, no doubt, but an examination of this stock will verify the fact.

WASH GOODS DEPARTMENT.

Andrew Jackson's Tenderness.
"People have little idea of the tenderness of President Jackson," said a letter from General Brinkerhoff. "Even on his deathbed, when his body was racked with the pains of fast approaching dissolution, his kindness of heart was shown in nearly every act, one of his daughter's stories well illustrating this. Mrs. Jackson, Jr., had some rare and tropical plants which she had placed very high up on a wall with a great deal of care. But a few days before he died, when he knew his end was near, General Jackson called his adopted son, Andrew, to his bedside, and pointing to the plants, said: 'Andrew, I can't live but a few days, and when my funeral takes place there will doubtless be a great many people here, and they will want some way to protect those plants they will be broken off, or destroyed or taken away. Now Sarah is very proud of them, and I should have those plants carried to the upper veranda and lock the windows and then they will be safe.' He died a few days after that. He cared for his plants as much as he cared for his people."

THE SITUATION UNCHANGED.

Mr. Gladstone's Resignation Not Yet Tendered—The Probable Cabinet.

London, June 10.—The position of affairs in the ministerial crisis shows little change to-day. The fact that the Queen has not yet reached a decision is indicated by Mr. Gladstone's presence in London. He did not go to Balmoral and present his resignation in person, as was stated by this morning's Standard. Earl Spencer also continues at his post in Dublin. This morning's papers devote considerable space to the discussion of the Cabinet's situation, but venture no prediction as to its final settlement.

Sir Charles Dilke, president of the Liberal Club last night, said, in referring to the events of the past twenty-four hours, that there was one event so gratifying that it was hardly possible to mention it without emotion, namely, the extraordinary reception which the Liberals in the House of Commons gave their great leader this morning when he came down to the House to announce that all expected he would make. He believed that the whole country shared this feeling. Mr. Gladstone's mind was calm and clear, and he was now in complete sympathy with the advanced Liberal section. Even more than before he was the greatest Liberal leader ever known.

The new cabinet as partially forecasted by the Conservative leaders will consist of the Marquis of Salisbury as Prime Minister, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer and leader in the House of Commons; Sir Stafford Northcote, Lord President of the Council; Lord Randolph Churchill, Secretary of State for India, and Colonel Frederick Stanley, Secretary of State for War.

The Marquis of Salisbury was Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs under Lord Salisbury, and is about 55 years of age.
